What's your teaching resolution for the new year?

Here's the top 5 (according to teacherhub.com!)

Get your Work/Home Balance in Order

As best you can, keep school work at school and enjoy your time at home. Making yourself happy will be better for you AND your students.

Spice up your Classroom

Try one new technology and technique each month to keep things new and challenging for you and your students.

Set Goals and Avoid Autopilot Mode

Now, I don't mean your school and official achievement goals, I mean your own personal classroom goals. What is one or two things you think are important but forget as soon as the flurry of teaching gets in the way? Write one achievable goal a month and make it your priority.

Take advantage of all relevant CPD

Consider what your career goals are and get a move on with them!

Make Better Use of Planning

Plan your planning time so you can take less (or hopefully no) work home with you! It's tempting to take a much-needed break but it'll feel even better to walk away with an empty bag at the end of the day!
